

PRESS RELEASE 29 JUNE 2017

We are deeply concerned that Thailand is turning its back on innovation with the NBTC's proposed OTT regulations. The proposed regulations do not put Thai businesses and innovators first; they instead increase their regulatory burden and potentially limit their ability to grow. The rules could also prevent millions of Thai people and enterprises from using open global platforms to build their businesses online. We are also concerned that the rules may be at odds with Thailand's international agreements.
